Justification:

In this work, the now hopeless artist replaces his own voice and ideas with the work of others who still have the capacity to dream of a better world since he just can't anymore. No apology here, no hierarchy is respectable, not sorry, it just doesn't work. Hierarchy is not the organization of people in relation to skill, it is not a justifiable organization of capacity, hierarchy is based in the desire to control others, to delineate the value of the other (through violence, always), and you know that already, which is why we have a problem. Respect, love, fuck you.
